threading

Threading is an ancient method of hair removal originating in Persia, where a pure thin twisted cotton thread is rolled over hair, plucking the hair out at follicle level. Unlike tweezering where a single hair is pulled out each time, threading can remove an entire row of hair, resulting in a straighter line.

Dermalogica is the skin care range developed and researched by The International Dermal Institute.

It offers a common sense and simple approach to skin care, combining the best ingredients science and nature can provide whilst maintaining a strong commitment to banning all know irritants from the products.

At the core of the Dermalogica philosophy is the belief that skin evolves throughout a lifetime. Dermalogica skin therapists are therefore trained to read your skin's changing conditions and design a personalised treatment and skin care routine specific to your needs.
